9 The Missing Ring

Name your favourite festival.
What do you like the most about it?

- 🎧 Kavita and Kartik couldn't wait to taste the yummy pongal. Festivals mean special food, new clothes and lots of fun. Kartik tried to see outside. A beautiful Rangoli decorated the entrance to each house on the street.
- 'The others don't speak Tamil. Why are they celebrating Pongal?' Kartik asked.
- 'The harvest festival is celebrated all over India,' Appa explained while stirring the rice.

'Yes, Santosh celebrates it as Sankranti, Simran as Lohri and Debo as Bihu. It is also called Uttarayana,' Kavita said, 'And there is kite flying.'

'We must greet everyone in the evening,' Amma reminded them.

'The pongal is ready!' Amma announced, just when they were getting hungry. 'My ring!' Appa cried out, 'It is missing.' They searched everywhere for the missing ring — in the kitchen, under the bed, in the bathroom, even in the box of rangoli powder.

'Look harder,' said Amma. They hunted for an hour. Finally they gave up.

'It is a festival. Cheer up, kids!' said Amma.
'I'll get Pongal for everyone,' Appa offered.
He scooped it into bowls and passed them around.

'Yumm... ' Kartik dug into his.

Kavita saw something shine in hers. Was it the spoon sparkling? The ring!

Kavita handed it to Appa, 'It must have slipped in while you cooking.'

'Happy Pongal!' Kartik grinned.
